FoodTech & AgTech

Strategic Counsel for Pioneers in Food & Agriculture

At the intersection of law, innovation, and sustainability, our firm partners with FoodTech and AgTech entrepreneurs to build and grow world-class brands.

Our team of experienced attorneys understands the unique challenges and opportunities facing FoodTech and AgTech entrepreneurs. We provide comprehensive legal services tailored to meet the specific needs of FoodTech and AgTech startups, helping them navigate complex issues, protect intellectual property, and structure strategic partnerships. Additionally, we provide strategic counsel to investors seeking to commercialize emerging technology and build a more sustainable future, guiding them through due diligence processes and closing investments. By leveraging our industry knowledge and legal expertise, we empower our clients to thrive in a dynamic landscape.

We work with food science clients by providing guidance on everything from capital formation to growth acquisitions and joint ventures. We advise our clients on executing significant co-manufacturing, distribution, and customer agreements. We specifically help FoodTech and AgTech companies secure design and utility patents, as well as trademark registration to build world-class brands.

Experience

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS:

- Served as Counsel to Agrivida in Acquisition by Novus International, Inc.
- Morse serves as outside general counsel to KPM Analytics, a global leader in scientific instrumentation, that focuses primarily on analyzing critical parameters within the food, feed, agriculture, and environmental sectors.

Team

Sean D. Detweiler
Justin B. Emery
Jonathan D. Gworek
Michael R. Jabbawy
Joseph C. Marrow
Elizabeth A. Resteghini
Daniel E. Wilcox

Related Practices

Corporate
Employment
Intellectual Property
Litigation
Mergers & Acquisitions
Patent
Startups & Emerging Companies
Trademark
Venture Capital