November 18, 2025

Morse is pleased to announce that Antenna Associates, a developer of Identification Friend or Foe (IFF) and secondary surveillance radar (SSR) antenna systems for military and commercial applications, has been acquired by Diamond Antenna and Microwave Corporation. This strategic acquisition expands Diamond's portfolio and strengthens its ability to deliver a broader, more integrated suite of advanced radar solutions.

Antenna Associates designs and manufactures high-performance, mission-critical IFF and SSR systems that enhance situational awareness, enable secure identification, and improve decision-making across air, land, and sea programs. Together, Diamond and Antenna Associates are poised to accelerate innovation and deliver even greater value to their customers and partners.

Morse served as counsel to Antenna Associates in this transaction with a deal team led by Joe Marrow and Dan Wilcox and support from Tim Manning, Dave Czarnecki, Matt Mitchell, Rebecca Alperin, Justin Emery, Veronica Mantilla, and Taimoor Choudhry.

> Reflecting on the transaction, Joe Marrow commented, "Morse was pleased to represent Antenna Associates and Dana Sandquist, VP of Sales at Antenna Associates, along with Appleby Capital, in consummating this significant transaction and we are excited to see the fruits of the combination."

Additional details on the investment can be found in Diamond's press release.
