Morse Serves as Counsel to KPM Analytics in Acquisition of AI Developer Smart Vision Works

March 15, 2023

Morse is pleased to announce KPM Analytics, a Union Park Capital portfolio company, successfully acquired Smart Vision Works, a specialized artificial intelligence (AI) technology company providing computer vision systems for agriculture and food industries. This merger demonstrates KPM Analytics' deep commitment to the food and agriculture industries.

KPM Analytics, a global leader in scientific instrumentation, focuses primarily on analyzing critical parameters within the food, feed, agriculture, and environmental sectors. With a long history of delivering advanced and reliable analysis solutions, KPM Analytics ensures product quality and optimizes process efficiency. Their solutions are used in labs, at line, over line, and in line providing rapid, precise, and repeatable analytical data that directly impacts business results. By adding Smart Vision Works technology to its portfolio, KPM offers more options for food quality analysis solutions.

Morse serves as outside general counsel to KPM Analytics.

Joseph Marrow and Ryan Whelpley served as lead counsel to KPM in connection with the successful consummation of the transaction with support from Morse specialists David Czarnecki, Matthew Mitchell, Faith Kasparian, Rebecca Alperin, Ryan Perry, and Katelen Dunphy.
