WALTHAM, MA — The law firm of Morse is pleased to announce the election of Lisa Warren to the position of managing partner.

A shareholder in the Firm's Intellectual Property practice group, Warren launched the firm's patent practice in 2007. In the ensuing period, the patent practice has become a critical part of the firm's practice portfolio, which also includes general corporate, private equity, M&A, employment, and taxation practices. The beginning of her term as managing partner, in which she succeeds Donald W. Parker, coincides with the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the 40-lawyer firm.

"Under Don's leadership, our firm has expanded beyond its roots serving startup companies in the technology industries to offer an array of services to companies of all sizes," Warren said. "By cultivating a culture that emphasizes innovation, integrity and excellence, Don has left our firm well-positioned for future growth. One of my top priorities will be to continue adding strength and expertise to our practice areas in the Boston market and elsewhere as our firm embarks on the next 20 years."

Morse focuses exclusively on the core legal services that businesses need to succeed, helping businesses of all sizes — from startups to Fortune 1000 companies — in the service areas of corporate, intellectual property, licensing, employment, taxation and litigation.
