Practical, Proactive Advice Reduces Risk

Our tax practice is fully integrated with our transactional practices to ensure pro-active tax advice and to minimize tax burdens associated with business operations and transactions.

The advice of a seasoned tax attorney is invaluable when forming a business, buying or selling a business, entering into intercompany agreements, or resolving disputes. The tax ramifications of these activities require careful analysis and consideration of individual needs. The expertise of our taxation attorneys is constantly sought by our other practice professionals and clients in the areas of business and transactional tax planning as well as employee benefits and ERISA.
